ABE'S LITTLE FLIER

By GRANT THORBURN

Copyright, 1902, by T. C. McClure

For years he'd been a power in the Flatbrook meeting house—not during church time, to be sure, nor yet at Sunday school, nor week night meetings, nor Epworth League. It was at other times he shone—at the fairs, and candy sales and donation parties, and school commencement, for he was a prodigal, and he was the regular star at the village entertainments.

But lately his popularity had begun to wane. The Flatbrokers became tired of the same old card and coin tricks, though Abe Hinchman, through long and careful practice, was an adept at them. They longed for the Indian box trick and the juggler's sword tricks of the metropolis. They did not know that down in the cities the blasphemous society, if they ever did attend a sleight of hand performance, always came in when the card and coin tricks commenced and yawned and went out when the Indian box trick came on.

Abe realized that his popularity was on the wane. Even old Doc Clarkson's daughter had grown a bit distract and cold. So Abe made up his mind.

He drew about two-thirds of his bank deposit and started for New York. He was determined to learn a few new tricks, buy some new paraphernalia and come back and astonish the natives and old Doc Clarkson's daughter. It was early winter and there was no farming to be done, so there was no better time or opportunity, and he went.

"Well, sir," said the leader severely.

Hinchman's two companions sprang to the table, shoved Hinchman aside, grabbed the bag containing the jewels and the envelope containing the money and made for the door.

"Run for your life!" they yelled to Hinchman. "It's the cops! These stones is stolen!" They waited not, but burst through the men at the door and leaped down the stairs. Hinchman was left to face the three men.

"Well, sir," said the leader severely, "we got you anyways. What you got to say for yourself?"

Hinchman told the whole story from beginning to end. The three men evidently didn't believe it, but nevertheless they marched him to the corner of the street and there told him they would let him go provided he would appear at the police station in the morning to prosecute the others. He promised, and they left him. He took to his heels and sprinted for his boarding house. Once there, he gathered up his grip, paid his reckoning and jumped on the nearest trolley car. Eventually he fetched up at the Astor House. There he took a room.

Once in his room, he hung his grip in a corner, took off his hat and wiped his brow with a bandanna kerchief. Then he drew carefully from his inside pocket first an envelope and then a small bag. In the envelope was Abe Hinchman's $200, and in the bag were four genuine stones. The other men, wherever they were, also had an envelope and a little bag, but in the one was simply a roll of green paper and in the other a few dried beans.

Abe Hinchman had merely played it as low down on 'em as he could; that's all. Legerdemain comes in handy once in awhile. He shopped around and sold two of the stones. The other two he kept.

A week later Abe Hinchman stepped off the train at Flatbrook and sauntered down the street. A diamond stud shone in his shirt bosom. He smoked a twenty cent cigar.

"Pretty flip, Abe," remarked a townsman—the jeweler, in fact—as he inspected the pin. "Where'd you get the dough?"

"Just been taking a little flier in Wall street with the boys," remarked Abe.

"Well, Abe," said this one, "you look first rate. What you been down there?"

"Well," returned Abe, "you can just bet that I stood on the steps in front of the Astor House along with the best of them; yes, sir, I did."

"Here's a little thing for you, Millie," suggested Abe to Doc Clarkson's girl that day—that is, if you'll say "Yes." It was a magnificent solitaire ring. "Oh, Abe!" sighed the young lady in ascent.

A week later Abe Hinchman entertained a select audience with the Indian box trick, the sword trick, the clothes basket trick, the cabinet trick and every trick in the business. It was simply great.

They had to go to the friend's room, five blocks distant up a dark, dingy staircase. The friend produced the jewels. Abe wouldn't touch them unless they went over to some Broadway jeweler, and he was the real thing, see? And you'll be in the difference between a couple of hundred and most a thousand, see?"

Hinchman saw. He thought it over and concluded that it was a sound proposition, provided the gems were genuine. He excused himself a moment, went to his room and put $200 in one envelope and something else in another envelope of similar appearance.

WHAT MEANETH THIS.

The browbeating, bulldozing, disreputable tactics resorted to in order to keep the justice's salary case from being appealed to the supreme court are comparable only to the low-down methods too often adopted in the heat of a political campaign. The Ledger is being abused through the length and breadth of the county, in print, in the counsels of the board of supervisors, and all because it dares to advocate the pressing of this salary grab to the highest court for final adjudication. In the articles published in our contemporaries, in the address of the attorney to the board of supervisors, and in the petition of the parties in interest presented to that body, there runs a sameness of sentiment and expression that impresses the thought that one mind is not only directing but actually putting in motion all this machinery for the double purpose of arousing public sympathy for the justices and constables, and creating a sentiment against carrying the case beyond the trial court. This week another phase of this deep-laid scheme has developed. Petitions have been started for signatures in the various townships, we presume to be presented to the supervisors at the next meeting, the evident purpose being to influence that body and also coerce the auditor into issuing the warrants for salary by showing if possible that the people are overwhelmingly in favor of that course.

The Ledger is surprised that the township officers—men whose sworn duty it is to interpret and enforce the laws, should, under any plea whatever, allow themselves to be betrayed into a position so utterly indefensible and untenable. Look at the bill of complaint before the supervisors. It is revolutionary in its character. It asks the board to pay—not their bills for fees earned in criminal cases, of which the board has jurisdiction, and would be absolutely safe in paying. Indeed, the auditor, C. L. Culbert, stated that he was prepared to draw his warrant for the respective amounts, if allowed by the board, such payments to be credited on their salary accounts in the event of the supreme court deciding the pending suit in their favor. What could be fairer than this? What more could the auditor do, and at the same time do his duty as a public officer? The offer was rejected, and we are informed the board was urged to reject these bills. How hollow is their plea in face of these facts. But no, they want the supervisors to arrogate functions which do not belong to them, namely, to pre-judge their case and anticipate the final action of the courts, by ordering the auditor to pay the salaries. Therein they are asking them to violate the law. They ought to know, and we have a right to assume that they do know, that the supervisors have no right to pass upon a question of law. What a mockery a public petition means under these circumstances? What do they expect to accomplish by it? Is it designed to swerve the county auditor from the path which he believes it to be his sworn duty to tread? Is it to tempt the supervisors to travel outside of their authority by a show of popular clamor?

The supreme has been instituted for the settlement of just such questions as are involved in this case. It is up to Amador county, through auditor Culbert, to carry the matter to that tribunal, in the interest, not of Amador county alone, but of the people of the entire state. The Ledger has consistently opposed this salary-grab scheme from its inception up to the present time. We have no apologies to make. It is of inferior moment to us whether we voice the views of the majority or not. It is of supreme importance that we retain an approving conscience by acting up to our convictions of duty. We belong not to his party, and for the information of those who are so industriously circulating reports to the contrary we may say, we have not attempted to influence him in his course. We may state further, however, that the Ledger is not slow to commend a faithful officer who boldly fronts in the direction of duty when under pressure, and they are making a foolish blunder who imagine that he is apt to lose either political or personal prestige by such conduct.

Cardinal Sarto, after four days of balloting, was elected head of the catholic church, as Pope Pius X.

Uncalled-for Letters.

Justices' and Constables' Petition.

The following petition was presented to the board of supervisors last Monday:

We the undersigned justices and constables of Amador county do most respectfully petition your Honor to hear and, represent as follows:

On the 19th day of March, 1903, the legislature of the state of California changed our compensation in criminal cases from fees to salaries.

That this board has laid over all our claims presented for fees in criminal cases, subsequent to said 19th day of March, 1903.

That the auditor of Amador county, C. L. Culbert, has refused to draw our salary warrants since the said 19th day of March, 1903, notwithstanding a judgment of the superior court of Amador county directing him to do so.

That the said auditor intimates that he may appeal from said judgment to the supreme court of the state of California.

That we are advised and believe it will take two years to decide said contemplated appeal, and in the meantime it is proposed that we serve the county and citizens thereof without compensation. Or in other words, that we should get nothing for our services under the old law because it has been repealed by the new, and that we should get nothing for our services under the new law because it is unconstitutional.

We submit this is unfair and unjust; none of us are men of large means, and most of us have families to support, and are in urgent need of the small salary due us for services rendered.

Twenty-eight counties in this state are paying justices and constables in criminal cases salaries instead of fees, and it remained for the officers of Amador county to make the first objections to the law.

Such counties as Santa Clara and Alameda pay thousands of dollars to their justices and constables every month, while the amount provided for us under the salary law ranges from $35 to $60.

The identical question involved in this salary law has already been decided by the supreme court of this state, in the case of Vail vs. San Diego county, 136 Cal. Reports, p 36, where it is held that the legislature can change the mode of compensation of public officers from fees to salaries after their election and during their term of office. It has also been decided by numerous superior courts in the past 10 years.

We do not want to be forced to resign our offices, but we certainly think that no fair-minded taxpayer wishes us to serve for two years for nothing, or wait that time for our pay.

We respectfully call to the attention of the board that our claims against the county expire by limitation in six months, a long time prior to the time a decision can be obtained by the supreme court.

We are all under bonds, secured by responsible sureties. If these salaries are paid to us we and our bondsmen are responsible to the county for the return of the money if it should ever be decided we are not entitled to the same.

We therefore ask that our salaries be paid to us as we earn them, and we or our bondsmen will refund the same if they are ever declared illegal.

Otherwise we ask this board to grant us some practical relief from our present embarrassing position. Signed by all the justices and constables in the county.

Killed a Rattlesnake.

Lewis Love, a boy of 11 years, encountered a large rattlesnake in Matley's field, not a quarter of a mile from town, last Wednesday. He did not hesitate to give battle to the reptile, and after a short campaign succeeded in shooting it through the head with his air gun. The snake had ten rattles and a button. Lewis clipped the rattles from the body and is exhibiting them as the trophies of the fray.

Lawn Festival.

A lawn festival will be given at the residence of Mrs. Clough, near the Zella mine, on Wednesday evening next, August 12, to raise funds in aid of the salary of the pastor of the M. E. church. The salary is $200 short, and only this month remains in which to raise the amount. The festival will have several novel features of attraction, among which may be mentioned a country store, in which articles from $5 up to $100 may be purchased. Also "Sundays" and "lollipops" will be on sale. Exactly what are these ye reporter knoweth not, except that they are dainties of a most reliable character, and must be eaten to be appreciated. A large attendance and liberal patronage is expected for this entertainment.

Scared by Traction Engine

Wednesday morning the two-horse stage from Sutter Creek to Ione, at a point a short distance this side of Mountain Springs, met the traction engine. It seems a colt was attached to the stage, and the horseless vehicle scared him, that a runaway was the result. Some of the passengers jumped out, and all escaped serious injury. W. J. McGee, the attorney, was on the stage, and in trying to escape fell out. He was shaken up somewhat but went on to Ione in McCall's buggy, and proceeded on his way to the city.

CONTEST OVER R. C. SARGENT ESTATE.

Miss Bertha Freshman Claims One-half Interest.

Ross C. Sargent, a wealthy land owner of San Joaquin, died recently in Stockton, leaving an estate valued at over a million dollars. It was reported that he left no will. At least the relatives and attorneys having charge of the estate have failed to find one. Deceased is a brother of A. J. Sargent, an old settler of Middle Bar, and an uncle of J. L. Sargent, both of whom are at present managing a portion of the estate. On August 1 a document was filed in the recorder's office of San Joaquin, which indicates that there is likely to be a bitter contest over the division of the estate. The fair contestant is Miss Bertha Freshman, a former resident of Stockton, and a daughter of Dr. B. T. Freshman, a practicing physician of Amador City. She is 18 years and 2 months old. The document filed for record is a power of attorney to Myer Jacobs, an attorney at law in San Francisco, to collect by suit at law, compromise or otherwise, any and all claims against said estate, and giving the attorney a one-half interest in any sum which may be realized from the estate after paying all expenses.

Attorney Myer Jacobs says: The sum made today is only preliminary to a sensation which will shake Stockton and reveal a romance in the life of the late R. C. Sargent, whose death occurred in June of this year. Bertha Freshman is the daughter of a poor man, and her home is in Amador City. Sargent, who was 80 years of age at the time of his death, had known her from childhood. Just what first attracted the old man's interest is not known, but he always displayed a warm affection for her. Several years ago he took her education in hand and placed her in St. Agnes' convent in Stockton, where he paid her tuition and visited her frequently. Later the girl was sent to St. Gertrude's Academy at Rio Vista at Sargent's expense. The fatherly affection he lavished on her caused the elderly Sargent determined to marry his protege when she became of age. Miss Freshman was 18 in May of this year, but her eighty-year-old suitor's health had failed, and in June he passed away.

There is every reason to believe that he made a will providing generously for her, but it is not in Miss Freshman's possession, and we do not know where it is. If it cannot be located we will proceed without it on the supposition that the will exists.

A. L. Levinsky, who is attorney for the Sargent estate, says that no will was made by R. C. Sargent, and that any attempt to foist one on the estate will cause trouble for the sponsors. He also denies that Mr. Sargent paid for the education of Miss Freshman at any convent, but admits that owing to his generosity he may have given money to some one to pay for the schooling of a son or daughter. Mr. Levinsky asserts positively that there will be no compromise, and says that he is not the least worried over the outcome of the case.

There is every reason to believe that he made a will providing generously for her, but it is not in Miss Freshman's possession, and we do not know where it is. If it cannot be located we will proceed without it on the supposition that the will exists.

Ernest Fisher, CHAS. E. RICKERT, Executor and Trustee of the will of Ross C. Sargent, deceased, has been appointed by the court to administer the estate.

William Scoble vs. T. J. Sevey, administrator of estate of J. Ninis and A. M. Orr—Notice of action pending.

Save The Children.

Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach, and these disorders are all caused by indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet, and encourages the growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 705 Central St., Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy is now three years old, and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have had the best doctors in Nashville, but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol, he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by City Pharmacy, Jackson.

Those Official Minutes.

The Record makes itself look very ridiculous in trying to dispute the statement of the Ledger that the petition of W. A. Nevills for a reduction of assessment was never officially disposed of by the board of equalization.

Tom Love, after a brief visit with his relatives, left Sunday for the city. He was accompanied by his mother and sister, Miss May Love. The latter has been in poor health for some time, and a change of climate is sought in the hope of its proving beneficial.

The small machines are not affected by the order, and are running as usual. The saloon men, without official notice, turned the machines to the wall on hearing that the district attorney had served the notice upon the sheriff. The petitions referred to in the opinion were circulated in Ione.

Calaveras Also in the Swim.

The county government act which manipulated the compensation of justices and constables from fees to stated salary, performed a similar service for township officers in Calaveras county. Consequently the pay question for these officials is in the same detectable state of muddle over there as in Amador county, and the tangle is in process of unraveling by the courts. The mandamus case against Auditor Jacks, to compel him to issue a warrant for salary under the new law, was heard before Judge McSorley last Saturday, the petitioner being represented by W. J. McGee, who is also attorney for the interested officials in Amador county. A report was in circulation here that the matter would not be seriously contested in Calaveras; that the outcome in this county would be taken as conclusive. We are reliably informed that this is incorrect. The determination to fight the matter to a finish is as pronounced in that county as in this. The question propounded by our contemporary, as to who can appeal the matter if Amador declines to do it, is a wretched subterfuge. To endeavor to create the impression that because Amador stands in a class by itself therefore the subject matter cannot be carried to the supreme court will befo nobody. The man that takes the average American citizen for a fool is only fooling himself.

New Blacksmith Firm.

George Lucot and M. W. Ford have purchased the blacksmith and wagon-making business of L. Costa. They assumed charge last Monday. Both are industrious, steady young men, and experts in their line. That they will command a large share of patronage goes without saying. The shop is full of work, and every patron can depend upon having his work done on time and in up-to-date style. We have no doubt the new firm will grow in popular favor, and the present proprietors will leave nothing undone to that end. Encourage them with business.

Installation.

A very pleasant evening was spent by the officers and members of Court Unit No. 7796, A. O. F., Saturday evening, July 25, at which time the officers for the ensuing term were duly installed by grand district deputy Wm. Trener. An enjoyable feature of the evening's entertainment was a chicken and raviola supper at the Union House. Wm. Trener further demonstrating his usefulness by acting as toast master for the occasion. Following are the installed officers: C. R., George Craze; S. C. R., John Libby; Soc., Alfred Harris; Treas., Thomas Lemin; S. W., Frank Mitchell; J. W., W. T. Bruer; S. B., J. Bodinhar; J. B., T. Hocking.

Afternoon Party.

Last Tuesday afternoon a party was given at the Spagnoli residence on Broadway in honor of Miss Genevieve Gagliardo of San Jose, a niece of Mrs. S. N. Spagnoli. Games and other amusements were enjoyed, and the whole concluded with refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake. The following were present: Miss Genevieve Gagliardo, Roma Spagnoli, Edith and Amelia Piccardo, Vivian Kent, Bertha Eudey, Thelma Kay, Amy Clark and Emma Johns; Messrs Frank Cuneo and Augustus Merre.

S. N. Spagnoli and Ernest Spagnoli returned from a trip to Kirkwood last Friday. They report an unusually large number of campers and tourists in that region this season. There were about 100 sojourning there, mostly in the vicinity of Kirkwood's and Caples lake. One lot of campers from Woodbridge, consisting of about 20 persons, in three wagons, were rustinating there. This outfit also left last week.

Rev. F. A. Morrow, W. H. Green- wood, and Chris Marelia are rusti- nating in the mountains, in the vicinity of Kirkwood. The trio started to Round Top. Greenhah and Morrow ascended to the summit without much trouble, but Marelia soon tired, and gave up the task. They intended to go to Lake Tahoe before returning home.

A. Rickett went to Byron Springs Thursday of last week. He is subject to stomach trouble, and was told by the physicians in charge that the baths and mineral waters were not calculated to have much curative effect in disorders of that nature. He took a couple of baths, and came home Sunday night. He says the trip did him good.

City reporters have been plentiful in Amador county this week, attracted either by the convict trail toward the Amador line. C. B. Coblant, representing the Examiner, and Martin Madson of the Chronicle, were in Jackson yesterday, on the lookout for news for those journals.
